

Managers Log 6-04-2020 Business Insiders story more abuse of...

Mon, 6/8 9:19AM • 2:48

SUMMARY KEYWORDS

Esper, Washington Post, church, abuse, Trump, sacred symbols, resigns, military, Miller, tear gas, President Donald Trump's, authority, pandemic, sanctity, turmoil

SPEAKERS

Joseph Orozco

Managers Log Thursday, June the fourth 2020 staying on the thread of abuse of authority by governmental officials. There was an article that appeared in the Business Insider, they got the story off of the Washington Post. "I wish you the best, US military adviser resigns after Trump's controversial photo op at church." A Department of Defense advisor has resigned effective immediately from the Military Science Board, citing what he believed to be a violation of conduct from Secretary of Defense Mike Esper. James Miller's reasoning centered on President Donald Trump's visit Monday to St. John's Church, where police cleared protesters with tear gas so that Mr. Trump could pose with The Bible for photographers, Defense Secretary Mark Esper was also present during the visit.

"You may not have been able to stop President Trump from directing this appalling use of force, but you could have chosen to oppose it." Miller wrote to Esper in his resignation letter, which was attained by the Washington Post. "Instead, you visibly supported it." Reverend Marianne Edgar Budde, the Episcopal Church Bishop described the scene to CNN and The Washington Post as an "...abuse of sacred symbols, amid a backdrop for a message anti ethical to the teachings of Jesus and everything that our churches stand for." She told the post that she was not given any a courtesy call that authorities would be clearing the area with tear gas, so they could use one of the churches as a prop.

Esper along with the US Military General Mark Milley, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was also present during the visit. In Miller's closing remark, he said, "I wish you the best in very difficult times. The sanctity of the US Constitution and the lives of Americans may depend on your choices." This again from Business Insiders. More scenes going around in the in the world about us and hopefully it will make some sense someday, hopefully we can recover from these actions and all the turmoil that's happening amid the COVID-19 pandemic that we are experiencing. Life goes on. Stay healthy. Thanks for listening.